National Initiatives to Transform Health Care for Frail Elders.

George A. Taler, MD

Chronic conditions have superseded acute and episodic illness as the major concern in the health care for older adults. Patients with multiple chronic conditions associated with functional disability are most likely to use high-cost resources and constitute the small percentage of the population that drives the costs of health care. The major challenge to the "helping professions" is to change our health care delivery system from one designed for episodic conditions to one that best addresses chronic illness. This presentation will highlight 3 approaches: the Patient-Centered Medical Home, Special Needs Programs and Independence at Home.

9:45 - 10:30 AM Cultural Approach to Mental Health and Aging Programs

Astrid Humanez, LGPC, MA

Older adults are a culturally diverse population, requiring an understanding of language, values, and practices to effectively address psychosocial needs within the cultural context. The Hispanic Outreach Program, a mental health program for older adults, will be discussed as a model for provision of services assuring bilingual and culturally competent practice, including home visits, counseling, and coordination.

10:30 - 11:00 AM Conference Break, Exhibits, Refreshments

11:00 - Noon Affordable Programs: Aging in Place

Moderator: Janice MacGregor, MS

Presenters: Gail Zuskin, Mary Pivawer, MSW, LGSW and Aileen McShea, MHS,

In this session, participants will learn about two cost effective programs that are addressing the needs of frail or vulnerable seniors living at home or in independent living housing facilities: "Warm Houses" and Congregate Housing. "Warm Houses" is an innovative outreach program administered by Jewish Community Services, which identifies and serves seniors where they live neighborhood block by neighborhood block. Catholic Charities, the largest provider of Maryland's Congregate Housing Services Program, will describe the cafeteria menu of services available including the optional services of medication reminders, and medication management as time permits. In addition, participants will learn the value and importance of developing partnerships with local hospitals

Noon – 1:00 PM

The Domestic Partners Law: New Rights, New Choices

Moderator: Sue Fryer Ward, MSW, LCSW, BCD

Presenters: Jack Schwartz, JD and Laurie Young, PhD, LICSW

This session will enable those who attend to describe and understand the key elements in Senate Bill 566 of 2008, including who qualifies as a domestic partner and what rights a domestic partner has under the law. Special attention will be paid to the implications for the gay and lesbian community, and the ramifications for older gay, lesbian and transgendered couples.

1:00 - 2:15 PM

Conference Luncheon and Exhibits

2:15 PM - 3:15 PM

Retirement Readiness and Retirement Risks

Moderator: Christine Costello, PhD

Presenters: Cindy Housnell, JD, Mary Grate-Pyos MBA

This panel discussion will describe the different phases of money management over the life cycle and ways to manage market volatility during those stages. The audience will become comfortable with basic fiscal concepts relevant to each stage, and will leave with increased awareness about some of the financial tools that can be used to produce retirement income, and some of the pitfalls to avoid in managing retirement assets.

3:15 - 4:00 PM

Bravo! Active Aging = Aging Well.

C. Edwin Becraft, Jr, MD

The session will discuss key biomarkers - their significance, typical changes and relationships in the aging process - including skeletal muscle mass, resting metabolic rate, percentage body fat, aerobic capacity and insulin sensitivity. The utilization of strength and cardiovascular exercise to improve these biomarkers and ultimately improve the individual's health and quality of life will be highlighted.

4:00 PM
